ABN GROUP APPOINTS CHIEF INFORMATION OFFICER

ABN Group is pleased to announce the appointment of Ayten Ozenc as Chief Information Officer (CIO) for the ABN Group.

Ayten is a highly experienced CIO with outstanding commercial and transformation experience, both globally and nationally. She began her career in IT as a developer, moving into program delivery and then holding several executive roles at Australia Post, Toll Group and lastly CIO at TabCorp.

We undertook an exhaustive and rigorous national search process for the CIO role and we are delighted to have landed with such an experienced and capable CIO.

Ayten is a values-based leader who is experienced and passionate about business and technology transformation delivery to create commercial value. Personally, Ayten is an avid learner, demonstrated by her attending Harvard Business School Executive Program in this coming September. Ayten has two adult boys with husband Glenn and has passions for both cooking and travel.

ABN Group's 5 year strategy is committed to a strong value creation mandate through a business strategy focusing on customers and employees, supported by a significant investment in business and technology transformation as a key enabler.

Ayten's skill set and extensive experience in business and technology transformation and growth in previous roles is critical in assisting the Group in achieving our strategic goals.

We are absolutely delighted to have Ayten join ABN and lead the transformation for the Group over the coming years.
